

Responsible Aquaculture

From Traceable Raw Materials to Certified Fish Feeds

Wednesday, 17 September 2025

National & Kapodistrian University of Athens, Alkis Argyriadis Hall,
30 Panepistimiou Avenue, Athens, Greece

What do farmed fish eat?

How is the reliable origin and responsible sourcing of feed raw materials ensured?

Which practices guarantee the production and traceability of fish feed?

The event will focus on Greek aquaculture, fish feed, and the origin of raw materials. It will highlight the role of marine ingredients in fish feed production and the international standards for environmentally responsible sourcing of raw materials, reliable production, transparency, and traceability.

The event is organized at the initiative of the Hellenic Aquaculture Producers Organization (HAPO), the key body for the development of Greek aquaculture, in collaboration with MarinTrust, the global international program for marine ingredients certification.
